

Die AutorInnen dieser Ausgabe

Georg Aichholzer

Georg Aichholzer was a long-time staff member and project director and now is a freelance collaborator at the Institute of Technology Assessment (ITA), Austrian Academy of Sciences. Major research areas of the sociologist include electronic governance, electronic democracy and citizen participation.

Arne Arnberger

Arne Arnberger is associated professor for recreation and protected area planning at the University of Natural Resources and Life Sciences, Vienna. His research focusses on outdoor recreation planning, social carrying capacities, visitor monitoring, protected area management, and linkages between landscape and human health.

Monika Auinger

Monika Auinger is junior researcher in the UNESCO Chair team on Sustainable Management of Conservation Areas at Carinthia University of Applied Sciences. The human geographer has a focus on transdisciplinary research designs in protected areas.

Harald Baron

Harald Baron, DI, Raumplaner, arbeitet als Planer für Windkraftanlagen bei der PÜSPÖK Erneuerbare Energie GmbH, Parndorf; vormals Forschungsassistent am FOB Finanzwissenschaft und Infrastrukturpolitik, TU Wien.

Valerie Braun

Valerie Braun has a PhD in eco-physiology of alpine plants and is now working as a scientist at the Institut for Interdisciplinary Mountain Research at the Austrian Academy of Sciences covering topics on protected mountain areas.

Martino Comelli

Martino Comelli is a PhD Candidate in Political Science at Central European University. Martino's academic interests include household debt, social policy and economic sociology.

Renate Eder

Renate Eder, PhD, is senior researcher and lecturer at the University of Natural Resources and Life Sciences, Vienna. Her research focusses on outdoor recreation planning, environmental education, public acceptance of nature conservation management, and linkages between landscape and human health.

Michael Getzner

Univ.-Prof. Dr., Universitätsprofessor für Finanzwissenschaft und Infrastrukturökonomie am Institut für Raumplanung, TU Wien.

Alexander Grassl

Alexander Graßl ist derzeit Masterstudent der Raumplanung und Raumordnung an der Technischen Universität Wien. Seinen fachlichen Fokus legt er dabei auf den Bereich GIS-gestützter Raumanalytik.

Michael Jungmeier

Michael Jungmeier is professor for nature conservation and sustainability at Carinthia University of Applied Sciences. The ecologist and human geographer holds an UNESCO Chair on Sustainable Management of Conservation Areas.

Christine Klenovec

Christine Klenovec is ecologist and manager of protected areas. Actually, she is working in the management of the biosphere reserve Großes Walsertal. Fields of interests are the interaction and common development of nature protection and sustainable regional development in protected areas based on a high level of participation.

Tobias Maroschek

Tobias Maroschek studiert Raumplanung und Raumordnung im Master an der TU Wien. Sein Interessensgebiet liegt in der Stadt- und Regionalforschung sowie im Städtebau. Seine Bachelorarbeit zu Resilience Planning bildet die Grundlage für seinen Beitrag.

Tatjana Neuhuber

Tatjana Neuhuber studierte Soziologie und Volkswirtschaft in Wien und International Social and Public Policy an der London School of Economics and Business. Derzeit ist sie als Universitätsassistentin am Forschungsbereich Finanzwissenschaft und Infrastrukturpolitik am Institut für Raumplanung der TU Wien tätig, wo sie ihre Dissertation zu räumlicher Ungleichheit verfasst. Ihre weiteren Forschungsinteressen sind unter anderem territoriale Kohäsion, partizipative Raum- und Regionalentwicklung sowie Regional Governance.

Christina Pichler-Koban

Christina Pichler-Koban works for E.C.O. Institute for Ecology and the University of Klagenfurt. Her focus is on inter- and transdisciplinary research and educational projects on socio-ecological issues.

Franz Rauch

Franz Rauch, is a Professor at the Institute of Instructional and School Development (IUS) at the Alpen-Adria University Klagenfurt (Austria). His areas of research, teaching and publication are education for sustainable development, networks in education, school development, science education, continuing education for teachers and action research.

Dietmar Rossmann

Dietmar Rossmann is Managing Director of the UNESCO Biosphere Reserve Carinthian Nockberge. He has many years of experience as a part-time farmer and hunter in the biosphere reserve.

Markus Schaflechner

Markus Schaflechner, MSc MBA is general manager of the biosphere reserve Salzburger Lungau and the Lungau Regional Association. His academic backgrounds are the management of organisational and personal development as well as executive management.

Antonia Schneider

Antonia Schneider hat Raumplanung und Raumordnung an der Technischen Universität und Umwelt- und Bioressourcen Management an der BOKU studiert. Derzeit verfasst sie ihre Dissertation am Forschungsbereich Finanzwissenschaft und Infrastrukturpolitik des Instituts für Raumplanung wo sie als Projektassistentin arbeitet. Ihre Themenschwerpunkte liegen aktuell auf nachhaltiger Stadtplanung, Wohnungsmarkt und Klimawandeladaptation, dabei gilt ihre große Begeisterung insbesondere der raumbezogenen Datenanalyse und (Umwelt-)Bewertungsmethoden.

Andreas Weiss

Andreas Weiss is Managing Director of the Wienerwald Biosphere Reserve Management. Since studying ecology and landscape planning, he has worked in the field of regional development and regional management.

Lisa Wolf

Lisa Wolf is project manager and head of department "Sustainability" at E.C.O. Institute of Ecology. The geographer's work focuses on UNESCO Biosphere reserves and their development.